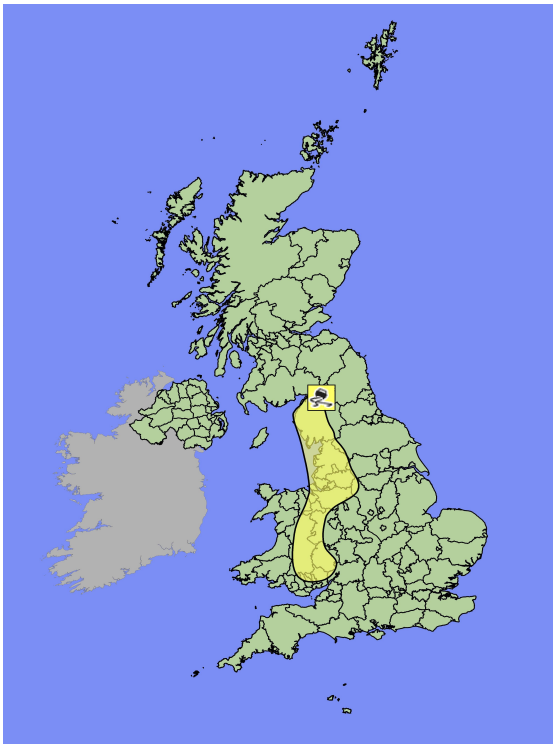
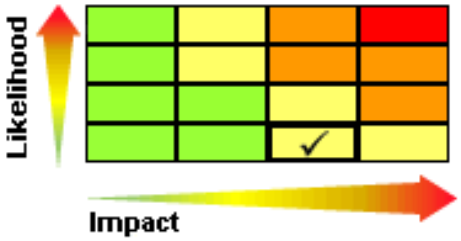
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Clearing skies during the early hours of Tuesday will lead to temperatures falling below freezing across parts of northwest England, Wales and the West Midlands. Following the rain and showers of Monday, there is a risk of ice forming on untreated roads and pavements.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 02:00 on Tue, 18th Dec 2012 until 11:00 on Tue, 18th Dec 2012

Icy patches are expected to form on untreated surfaces across parts of northwest England, Wales and the West Midlands during the early hours of Tuesday.

The public should be aware that this could lead to difficult driving conditions in places.
